

Hello there everyone, Soph here! I noticed there have not been any issues in a while so I am going to write one myself, actually, I am going to be the new towns newspaper writer! Currently I, Soph/Reggie Baba, am working on bringing Sal back to life (I am not confirming nor denying whether or not it has been working or not.)

Recently I have found out who my dad is (ew helen what the hell) and I am not leaving the royal family to be reconnected with him, I am just keeping my regular position as secretary of treasury. I am currently working on a special project, this is the only time I will be bringing this up due to the fact I want to keep mostly quiet about this.

ALSO I want to welcome Attica to our town!! (Attica uses he/him pronouns and is very much like Ember) Crow has been thrown to the rabbid 6-headed-deer that plague this cursed land for... reasons. He has been signed up for our current expeditions into hell. Building off of this, we are currently trying to find the safest way to move into hell. I want to thank the knights for being calm during this process. We are working with Scott to move, imagine Scott to be the beetlejuice of this world. Moving will be free of cost, considering the fact that we have pretty much no currency in this town. (Mary's comment: We're working on that! More to come soon.)

Other than all this, not much has been going on. My son/creature was adopted a while ago, his name is Cole Billings and he is now a part of our town being a shopkeeper for battle poison.(IT'S MY SPECIALTY! hehe...) He is only in 6th grade (and insane) so please be nice to the thing(don't be nice 2 me). I want to thank everyone for not killing anybody these couple of months(good job!). I will start issuing these papers every week on Tuesday. (remember to check your emails for the updates on what's going on in the town!) :DD
